

Day Four

After breakfast I ventured out to look for Holy Trinity Sloane Square.

I noticed that one stop after the one I wanted, Gloucester Rd, had a church of note nearby so I alighted there.

No luck with finding Sloane Square, but I now know where it is I'll go to the V&A when I venture there again. I'm OK with apps such as Waze when I'm driving but I find when walking I'm more likely than not going the wrong way.
It's back to the paper map.

When I didn't know where I was in South Kensington

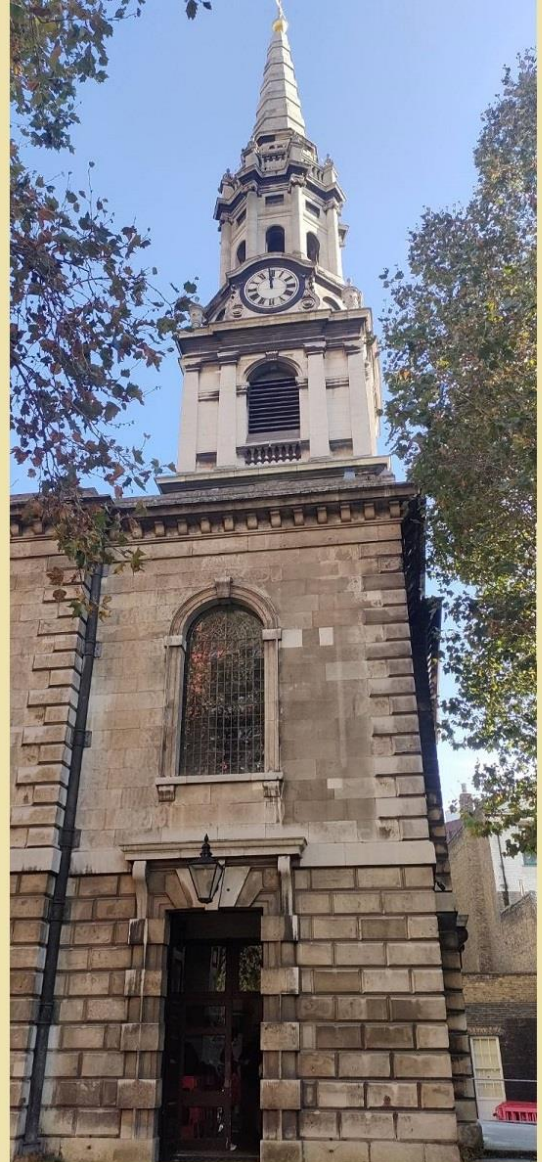

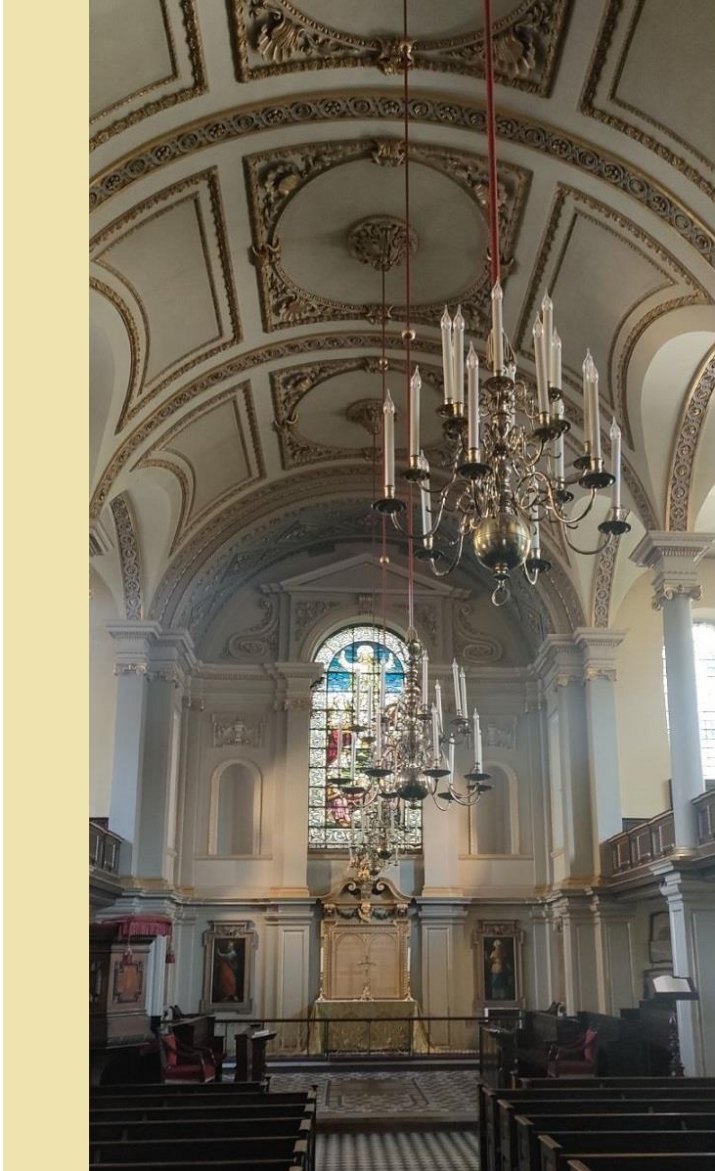

So back to the hotel and some work on the OMSV weekly email, lunch and a swim.
A yoga class and another church.

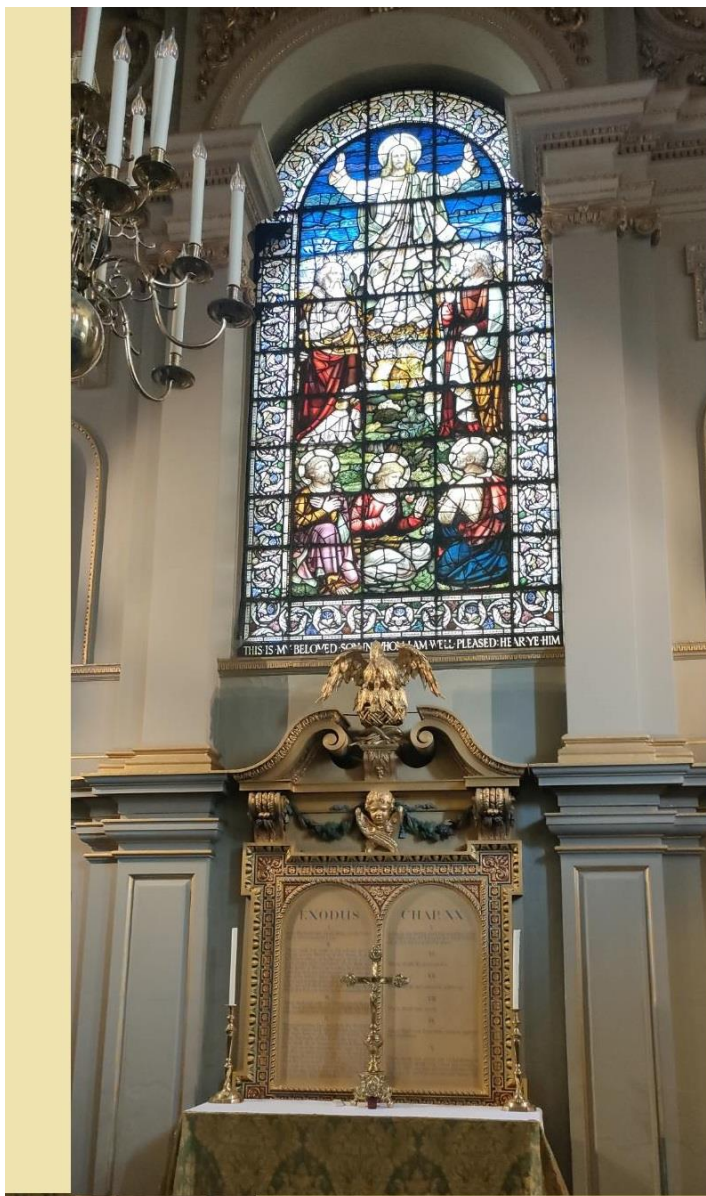

My Yoga Instructor

My hotel is the St Giles and, low and behold, there is two blocks away
St Giles in the Fields, a church I'd never heard of.

Tomorrow, Windsor? We'll see.